

HILLPRESS

H I L L C E S T H A L L - I Y ' S A L L I N T H E W R I S T S

There Comes a Time in a Man's Life...

The RAs don't want you doing it. Your parents would probably be disgusted if they knew that you were even thinking about it. It's bad enough if you do it in the privacy of your own room, but you and I both know that it's a lot more fun if you do it in the hallway. It's even more fun if three or more people are involved. It's wrong on so many levels, but deep down inside of us, we all have the primal urge to play hall sports. This is only natural. It's part of becoming a man. I'm not saying you should never ever do it, but as your father I feel that I must warn you of some of the risks that can come from this type of behavior. You need to think before you get involved. So practice safe hall sports, kids, and stay away from the...

TOP 6 DUMBEST HALL SPORTS EVER

6. DIVING

5. CABER TOSSING

4. HUNTING

3. WATER POLO

2. SKYDIVING

1. THE QUIET GAME

David Choquette did not include Brad's mom on this list because she is not, in fact, a sport. She's more of a liberal art

Editorial: I Need a Job

Residents of Hillcrest, I need your assistance. I am about to graduate in May. Though I have applied for many jobs during the course of the semester, none of these potential employers have contacted me with an offer. So, I am offering myself and my services to the Community, to be exploited in return for payment. CALIFORNIANS NEED NOT APPLY!

I am prepared to serve Community members (OF NON-CALIFORNIAN DESCENT) in any of the following capacities in return for $.50 per hour plus lodging: ditchdigger, tree counter, dog walker, cat assassin, small child assassin, porter, temporary bridge, spare tire, dream analyst, seat warmer, mop, or fishbait. I WILL NOT PERFORM ANY OF THE ABOVE-MENTIONED WORK FOR OR IN ASSOCIATION WITH CALIFORNIANS!

(contact me to open negotiations): spleen, kidney (1), lungs (renowned from here to the West Coast, a real bargain!), toes, scalp, eyebrows, kneecaps, backs-of-knees, elbows, little and ring fingers, fingernails, and earlobes. NO ORGANS WILL BE SOLD TO CALIFORNIANS, AND NO BUYERS OF ORGANS MAY SERVE AS INTERMEDIARIES IN THE TRANSFER OF ORGANS TO CALIFORNIANS!

Please contact me with offers as soon as possible. I am in urgent need of cash to support my $2 per month pop-tart habit, and if I don't find employment with people soon, I may be forced to seek employment with Californians.

I am also willing to part with the following organs at cut-rate prices

Collin Calhoun worked with Californians last summer. Never again.

A FEW TIPS FOR CHECKING OUT OF HILLCREST

Yes, my fellow Hillcrestaceans, we have had quite a year. After our chaotic first day, a great football season, NerdFests, coffee houses, an NCAA tournament, and the tragedy that befell us last Monday, this year will never be forgotten. Now that the end of spring semester is here, it is time to start making plans for moving out. Due to the fact that I have no knowledge base regarding checkout procedures, I figure I am well qualified to tell you exactly how to do it. Here are some tips to save you from some unnecessary fees:

1. If you are like me, you brought a ton of useless crap with you to college. Bowling pins, rock collections, Brad's mom, spare mouse pads, ancestral remains - they've all got to go. A lot of this stuff was probably snuck into your car as you were leaving the house back in August. Your parents couldn't quite justify throwing it away, so sending it to a temporary home with you was the best compromise. "I think your great-aunt Tabetha's urn would be great asset to you at Tech!" Sure, Mom. Fortunately for you, there are lots of great places in Hillcrest to hide such things. Or, if you are like Jeremy, you can just leave them on the floor outside your room.
2. You know that dirt clod next to your bedpost that looks kind of like Donald Rumsfeld? I know you want to leave it there for future generations to enjoy, but it too must take leave. Get a camera and take a few pictures to send to college humor, and then vacuum the sucker. A word of caution, however - those two machines in the RA office are actually electronic noise generators disguised as vacuum cleaners. You will probably have more success rolling around on the floor wearing a wool sweater.
3. I'm sure we all remember February, the month of the triops. They were cute, cannibalistic aquatic invertebrates that lived on Mitch's desk for five weeks. They also smelled like old Chinese food. And because that same room also housed expired Chinese food on several occasions, it's been a rough semester for those of us with nostrils. If you also have residual smells in your room, I recommend getting in touch with Collin. The viscosity of his beard allows it to naturally absorb airborne toxins. Last time I checked Collin's services were free - so don't bother investing in one of those Ionic Breeze things.

Tory Smith will be checking out on Wednesday, May 2nd. Please feel free to stop by and give him a hard time.

The Top Six Hillcrest Summer Vacation Plans

Whatever you're doing, it doesn't matter until you come back next year, spend the night on the 2nd floor lounge couch, and then lord it over us.

I present to you in the most David Choquette fashion:

6. You know in Ghost Busters, how the Stay-Puffed Marshmallow Man attacked the New York in a murderous rage- well, it turns out he was just sadly misunderstood. In the ongoing fight for understanding between mankind giant fluffy monsters, Julia Alspaugh will be the Michelin Man's personal translator.

5. Nora Vitello has taken a prestigious internship and will spend the summer at the Fortress of Solitude. She will return more Supermanesque than ever before.

4. Pinky: Gee, Brain... umm... Erin Smithberger, what are we going to do tonight? Smithy-B: The same thing we do every night, try to cure cancer!

3. You know how hard it is to whistle after you eat a cracker? Image how hard it is to do when you're eating cantaloupe... That's right, Will Satterwhite will cease whistling this summer so that he can eat as many cantaloupes as possible.

2. After celebrating her 21st birthday and watching the fantastic Charlton Heston film Soylent Green at the same time, Katie Robbins decided to forgo whatever other summer plans she had and develop the environmentally friendly, resource conserving, and refreshingly delicious beverage: Soylent Aquamarine.

And the number one plan (drumroll please)...

1. Hillpress's own Brad Shapiro will be in Moscow representing the United States of America in the best way he knows how:

Erin Rubin does not know Dschinghis Khan, but has asked Brad to get several autographs for her...

If none of this makes any sense to you, please see

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=v1wG9g1wjSA>

SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Several Hillpress columnists have mentioned my mother through the year, so just so without further delay... Brad's Mom.

Hillpress Staff

Garbage Disposal Brad Shapiro
Baster Kathleen Cooperstein
The Collinder Collin Calhoun
Betty Crocker Cookbook Kari Adkins
The Crock Pot Peter Kauffmann
The Big Spoon Jeremy Henry
Asleep in Jeremy's Bed Mitch Daniels
The Muffin Tin David Choquette
The Salad Fork Tory Smith
Taco Bell Spork Erin Rubin
Double Boiler Ryan Luck